Course description

What, if anything, is new about “Big Data” in the 21st century? How is data made, rather than simply “found”? This course examines the “datafication” of American society: how and why data became central to government, business, and daily life in the United States from the 19th century to the present day. From early American almanacs to 21st-century algorithms, data has been produced, managed, and used by public and private institutions as well as individuals to calculate, control, and predict myriad aspects of society. This course will uncover the surprising histories of census data and identity documents, credit scores and economic indicators, SAT scores and opinion polls, digital databases and data visualizations, weather forecasting and climate modeling, and baseball statistics and biometric data—and their implications for today’s debates over security, privacy, democracy, and inequality in the age of “Big Data.”
Big questions

1.) How and why have government and corporations expanded their administrative capacity to operate large-scale data infrastructures?

2.) How have government and commercial data infrastructures been used to monitor, manage, and control people and environments?

3.) How have technoscientific methods and tools for classifying, quantifying, sorting, and analyzing large-scale data sets changed over time?

4.) How has data been used to perpetuate racial, gender, and class inequities but also to fight against those inequities?

5.) What are the historical connections between data, selfhood, and political, economic, and social citizenship?

Course format

- Online (asynchronous remote)
- Emphasis on multimedia sources (including video lectures, documents, maps, visual art, film, television clips, and podcasts)
- The success of our course will depend on your active and thoughtful engagement with the course material and each other, so please complete all the reading and activities for each module and share your ideas, comments, and questions with your classmates and the professor.
How to succeed in this course

1. Stay engaged

Our ongoing, collective conversation about the course material and reading is the single most important part of this course, and it depends on your engagement! Students in this course come from across the disciplines, and everyone brings a valuable perspective to the topics we will study. My hope is that we can take advantage of our online format to engage with the material and with each other in different ways than we would in a classroom setting.

This is a remote asynchronous course, which means that you can log on to our Canvas site each week to do your coursework at whatever days and times are best for you. (Because this is a relatively large class, we will not meet together for live online lectures at a specific time every week. But we will have some opportunities for real-time Zoom discussions throughout the semester at times to be determined by student availability.)

The course is organized into 15 weeks of online modules, with typically 2 modules for each week. The new modules will be posted at the same time each week, and you will have 10 days to complete each module on Canvas.

Each module will include short video lectures by the professor, a variety of multimedia sources, and opportunities for students to interact with each other and with the professor through collaborative activities, Canvas discussion forums, and other online platforms.

Another way to stay engaged in the course is to communicate by email with the professor and visit online Zoom office hours to clarify and deepen your understanding of the course material.
Your online engagement will be the basis of your citizenship/class participation grade, and it is highly unlikely that you will be able to succeed on paper assignments and exams without regular engagement with the weekly modules.

I understand that you may occasionally have to miss an assignment due to illness or other extenuating circumstances. In the event that you do fall behind in the course for whatever reason, please contact me by email as soon as possible so that I can help you catch up. I understand that everyone is doing their best under the extremely adverse conditions of a global pandemic, and I will do everything I can to make this course as flexible as possible for anyone who needs accommodations.

2. Do the reading

Reading assignments should be completed for each module as we will use the readings as the basis for online Canvas discussion and other interactive activities. It is important to take notes in some way as you read (e.g., underlining, highlighting, annotating, writing notes on a text's main arguments and themes, writing down questions, noting any confusing or seemingly contradictory aspects of the reading, etc.)

Additional short readings will be posted on Canvas.
3. Complete assignments on time

You will receive detailed instructions for each paper and exam well in advance of the due date. Read the instructions carefully and plan ahead. Come to online office hours to discuss your ideas with the professor. (Don't wait until the night before the paper is due to start the assignment!)

History Writing Tutors

Visit the History Writing Tutors online to get expert help with any stage of your writing process. Check out the History Writing Tutors webpage for more details and step-by-step writing guides covering everything from brainstorming to comma use.

Late submissions

There is a rolling submission period of one week for both paper assignments and the take-home midterm exam so that you can balance your workload for this course with your other courses and commitments.

Paper #1 is due the week of Sept. 28. You may submit it on Canvas anytime between Sept. 28 and Oct. 5.

The take-home midterm essay is due the week of Oct. 26. You may submit it to Canvas anytime between Oct. 26 and Nov. 2.

Paper #2 is due during the week of Nov. 23. You may submit it to Canvas anytime between Nov. 23 and Dec. 4 (a longer submission period that takes into account the Thanksgiving break).

If you need additional time to complete your work, please email the professor to arrange an extension.
Grading

Final course grades will be calculated according to the following scale, conforming to University policy that uses "+" but not "-" grades:

- A 90% & above
- B+ 85-89%
- B 80-84%
- C+ 75-79%
- C 70-74%
- D 60-69%
- F 59% & below

- Our Canvas grade book will be updated regularly throughout the semester, so make sure to check your grades so that you know where you stand.

- If you would like to discuss your grades at any point, please make an appointment to speak with the professor via Zoom. Please note that I do not discuss grades over email.

- There are no extra credit assignments in this course.

Canvas discussion groups

Our weekly modules will offer you many opportunities to engage with the material and each other on Canvas. Your online participation will be assessed based on the quality and quantity of your contributions to your Canvas discussion group.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Online participation rubric</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A Student participated meaningfully in every, or nearly every, Canvas group discussion; offered comments and/or questions that reflected substantive engagement with the assigned material; and responded thoughtfully to the other students’ contributions to Canvas discussions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B Student excelled in most of the above ways, but fell short on 1 or 2 of the criteria (e.g., had more than a few instances of no participation, or about 1/3 of the time made comments that reflected only a superficial engagement with the assigned material)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C Either the student excelled in some criteria but fell short in others (e.g., made frequent comments in Canvas group discussion but comments were not relevant to the topic or did not reflect engagement with the assigned material), or the student performed merely adequately on all the above criteria (e.g., only sometimes participated in Canvas group discussions)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D Student did not meet most of the criteria overall, but occasionally did meet one of the above criteria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F Student did not engage with the video lectures, assigned material, or Canvas group discussion throughout the semester</td>

4. Contribute to our intellectual community

The Department of History's “Policy on Mutual Responsibilities and Classroom Etiquette” states, “Our commitments to a strong learning community are expressed in many ways. Respectful professors convey their commitment to the discipline of history and their desire to share its delights and challenges. They are well prepared for class, provide students with clear goals and expectations, listen carefully to student questions and comments, and conscientiously evaluate their students' work. Respectful students bring a strong work ethic to the history courses that they select. They expect to attend the scheduled classes, to be on time, to be prepared for class, and to be attentive during class. A shared respect for the discipline of history and for one another as teachers and students of history is essential to the academic integrity of our program. We must all do our part to maintain an environment of openness and civility that encourages and honors the intellectual achievement represented by the discipline of history.”

Each of you is a valuable member of our intellectual community this semester, and I trust that you will conduct yourselves accordingly. My goal is that our class will be a space for thoughtful, sustained, and respectful engagement with the course material and with each other.

I trust that you will make your best effort to help us achieve this goal by doing the following:

• Keeping up with the weekly modules to the best of your ability
• Participating thoughtfully in online discussions and other class activities
• Working collaboratively and productively in your Canvas discussion group

20 percent of your course grade will be based on online participation & citizenship
5. Ask for help when you need it

I would like everyone to succeed in this course and am always happy to help however I can. Please don’t hesitate to contact me with any questions or concerns as soon as they arise.

Contacting the professor

I am available during online office hours each week or by appointment. I check email regularly and will reply as soon as I can, typically within one business day. In compliance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), please use your Rutgers ScarletMail account (not a personal email account) to communicate with your professors and teaching assistants. As the Rutgers University Ethics and Compliance webpage states, “All Rutgers University students, staff, and instructors are assigned a university managed email account to be utilized for purposes of official correspondence.”

Academic Integrity Policy

The foundation of this course and any scholarly endeavor is academic integrity. I fully expect that all students will adhere to principles of academic integrity in their work. You are responsible for understanding the Rutgers University policies regarding academic integrity. Ignorance of these policies or the consequences for violations is not an acceptable excuse.

All written work must be a student's own original work. Collaboration on writing assignments (i.e., essays and take-home exams) is not permitted. Any and all references to other sources within your own paper must be properly cited according to the bibliographic conventions of the Chicago Manual of Style, which is available at the Alexander Library and online at the Purdue Online Writing Lab.

If you have any questions about quoting, paraphrasing, or referring to the work of others, please ask! It is better to be safe than sorry—better to have too many citations than too few and thus run the risk of unintentional plagiarism.

Any and all violations of academic integrity in this course will result in the formal consequences and disciplinary action that are outlined in the Rutgers policies on academic integrity. I have a zero-tolerance policy for academic dishonesty and refer all violations directly to the Office of Student Conduct.

Students with Disabilities

Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey abides by the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, the Americans with Disabilities Act Amendments (ADAA) of 2008, and Sections 504 and 508, which mandate reasonable accommodations be provided for qualified students with disabilities and accessibility of online information. If you have a disability and may require some type of instructional and/or examination accommodation, please contact the professor during the first week of the semester so that we can arrange accommodations. If you have not already done so, you will need to register with the Office of Disability Services, Lucy Stone Hall, Livingston Campus, 54 Joyce Kilmer Ave., Suite A145.
